BABY RAY AND HIS PETS

(To be read to children)

One little dog he had to keep, keep, keep;
Two cunning little kitty-cats,
creep, creep, creep;
Three white rabbits
with a leap, leap, leap;
Four yellow ducks from the duck pond deep, deep, deep;
Five pretty little chicks
crying peep, peep, peep;
All saw that Baby Ray was asleep, sleep, sleep.

—Eudora Bumstead.

SOMETHING TO GUESS

I am a little boy.
I look after the sheep.
I look after the cows.
I blow a horn.
I went to sleep.
Who am I?

I am a little girl.
I look after my sheep.
I lost my sheep one day.
Who am I?

I am a little girl.
I went to the meadow.
I lost my little shoe.
Who am I?

I am a little boy.
I went up the hill.
I went to get a pail of water.
I fell down.
Who am I?

I am a little girl.
I went up the hill, too.
I went to get water.
I fell down, too.
Who am I?

I am a little girl.
I lost a pocket.
Kitty Fisher found it.
Who am I?

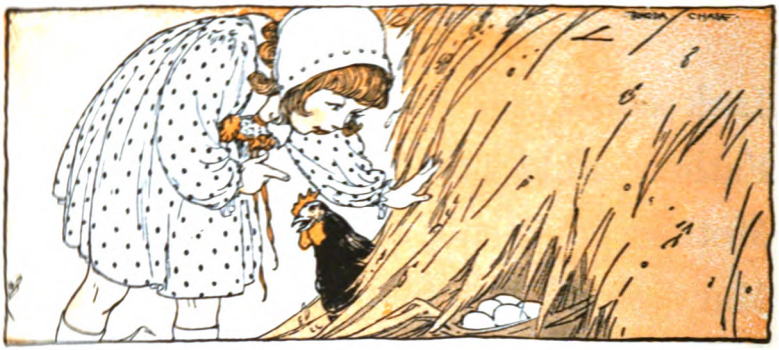
RED HEN'S NEST

Jack could not find Red Hen's nest.
Father could not find it.
Mother could not find it.
Mary could not find it.
Lucy said, "I can find it.
I will look for it.
I like to look for eggs."
So Lucy went to find the nest.
She looked in the barn.
The nest was not there.
She looked under the house.
The nest was not there.
She looked in the chicken house.
The nest was not there.
She looked and looked.
But she did not find the nest.

Digitized by Google



Then she said, "I give up.
I can not find that nest."
When Lucy said this,
Red Hen came out of the haystack.
"Ca-ca-ca! Ca-ca-ca!" she cried.
"You had to give up!
You had to give up!"
Lucy went to the haystack,
and there was the nest.
Guess how many eggs were in it.
One, two, three, four, five.
Yes, there were five eggs in it.

WHO WILL FEED US?

Hen: Cluck, cluck, cluck!
I am so hungry.
Oh, I am so hungry!
Cluck, cluck, cluck!
Where can Jack be?
He has not fed me.
Cluck, cluck, cluck!
I am so hungry.

Digitized by Google

Duck: Quack, quack, quack!
I am hungry, too.
Where can Lucy be?
I am Lucy's duck.
Lucy has not fed me.
Quack, quack, quack!
I am hungry, too.

Mother: Where can Jack and Lucy be?
They must feed the hen.
They must feed the duck.
Jack! Jack! Lucy! Lucy!
Where are Jack and Lucy?
I can not find them.
I must feed the hen.
I must feed the duck.
Poor little hen! Poor little duck!
Come to me. I will feed you.

KITTY'S BREAKFAST

Kitty was hungry.
Lucy had not fed her.
Kitty went to look for breakfast.
A bird was in a tree.
Kitty saw the bird.
But the bird saw Kitty coming.
And the bird flew away.

Digitized by Google

The wind sang in the tree,
"Woo-oo-oo! woo-oo-oo!
Nothing here for you-oo!
Nothing here for you-oo!
Woo-oo-oo! woo-oo-oo!"

Kitty went to the barn.
There she saw a little mouse.
But the mouse saw Kitty coming.
And the mouse ran away.

The wind sang around the barn,
"Woo-oo-oo! woo-oo-oo!
Nothing here for you-oo!
Nothing here for you-oo!
Woo-oo-oo! woo-oo-oo!"

Then Kitty went to the house.
She had not found any breakfast.

Digitized by Google

Jack saw Kitty coming.

"Come, Kitty, come," he said.
"I have breakfast for you.
Come and get this good milk.
Come, Kitty, come!"

And the wind sang,

"Woo-oo-oo! woo-oo-oo!
Something here for you-oo!
Something here for you-oo!
Woo-oo-oo! woo-oo-oo!"

And Kitty said,

"Mew, mew! mew, mew!
Thank you, thank you."

THE BIRDS

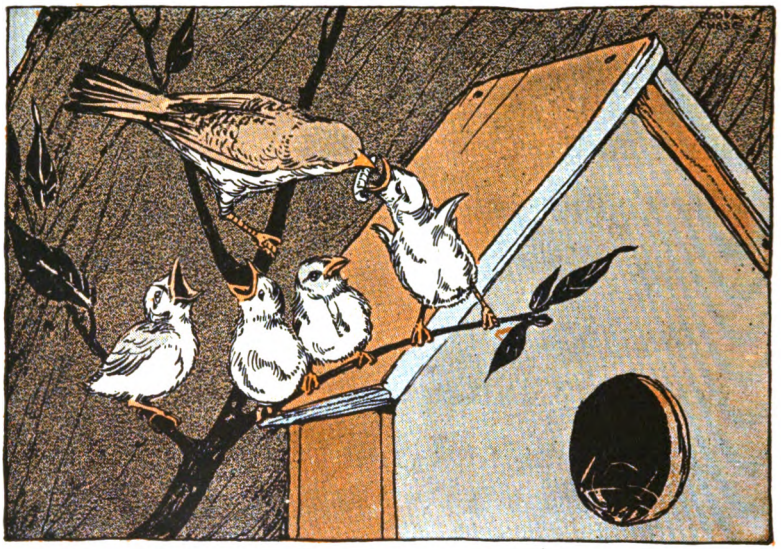
Father gave Jack a bird house.
Jack put it up in a tree.
"The birds will come soon," he said.
"They will see my bird house.
They will make a nest in it."
One day Jack called Lucy.
"The birds have come," he said.
"They are making a nest.
Come and see them, Lucy."
And Jack and Lucy saw the birds make their nest.

Digitized by Google

They went to the bird house again.
The father bird was not there.
The mother bird was not there.
Jack and Lucy looked in the nest.
They saw eggs in the nest.
One, two, three, four blue eggs.
Soon the birds came to the nest.
Then Jack and Lucy went away.

They went to the bird house again and again.
They liked to see the birds.
One day the father bird flew away.
Then the mother bird flew away.
Jack and Lucy looked in the nest.
The eggs were not there.
Guess what they saw.
They saw four baby birds.

Digitized by Google



Soon the father bird came home.
"Peep, peep!" said the little birds.
Father bird fed the little birds.
Then he flew away.

Soon the mother bird came home.
"Peep, peep!" said the little birds.
Mother bird fed the little birds.
Then she, too, flew away.

One day the mother bird said,
"You must fly."
The father bird said,
"Yes, you must fly."
Soon the birds could fly.
One day they flew away.
Jack said, "The birds have gone."
Lucy said, "Yes, they have gone."
Where had they gone?
Can you tell?

THE WIND AND THE APPLE

An apple was on a tree.
It was a pretty, red apple.
The pretty apple was asleep.
A little girl came to the tree.
She looked up and saw the apple.
"I see you, pretty, red apple,"
said the little girl.
"I want you, pretty, red apple.
Wake up, little apple.
Wake up and come down to me."
But the apple did not wake up.

But the apple did not wake up.

The sun came out.
The little girl said,
"You can wake the apple.
Do wake the apple for me."
"I see you, pretty, red apple,"
said the sun.
"Wake up and come down.
Come down to the little girl."
But the apple did not wake up.

LITTLE RABBIT

Mother Rabbit and Little Rabbit had a nest in the meadow.

One day Mother Rabbit said,

"Little Rabbit, I must go away.

I shall be gone all day.

Be good, Little Rabbit,

and do not leave the nest."

Digitized by Google

"Why?" asked Little Rabbit.
"The cat might get you.
The dog might get you.
And then it might rain.
Be good, Little Rabbit,
and do not leave the nest."
Then Mother Rabbit went away.

Little Rabbit was good.
He was good a long time.
Then he said,
"I am not a baby rabbit,
but a big rabbit.
I will leave the nest."
And away from the nest he ran.
He did not see the cat.
He did not see the dog.
How happy he was!

Digitized by Google

But what was that?
Rain? Yes, it was rain.
Down, down, down it came.
Little Rabbit ran and ran.
He ran to the nest and mother.
How wet he was!
How hungry he was!
Mother fed him and put him to bed.
Soon he was fast asleep.
When his mother went away again, Little Rabbit did not leave the nest.

Can you smell your breakfast?

Pig: Wee, wee, wee!
I can't smell my breakfast.
Where is my breakfast?
I am hungry.

Mother: You will get it by and by.

Pig: Oh, mother, mother!
I have a little mouth.
See my one little mouth.
What can I do with it?

Mother: You can eat with it.
You can eat your breakfast.

Pig: Wee, wee, wee!
Where is my breakfast?
I am so hungry!
I want my breakfast.

JACK'S PIG

One day Jack's father said,

"Guess what is in the meadow."

"A little calf?" said Jack.

"No; guess again."

"A little lamb?"

"No; guess again."

"Tell me. I can't guess."

"Mother pig has five little pigs."

"Oh! let me see them, father," cried Jack.

Jack and his father went to the meadow.

There were five little pigs.

"What cunning little pigs!"
said Jack.

"I wish I had one of them, father.
Will you give me one of them?"

"Yes, I will give you one.
But you must feed the pigs for me."

"I will, father," said Jack.
"I like to feed the pigs."

"Do you want a white pig, Jack?"

"No, I want that little black one.
I will call him Blackie," said Jack.

"You may have that one,"
his father said.

"Thank you, father," said Jack.

Jack looked after the pigs.
He gave them milk.
He gave them corn and apples.
Soon the pigs were fat.
Fall came.
What fine pigs Jack had!
And Blackie was the finest of all.
Guess what father did.
He let Jack take Blackie to the fair.
And Blackie was the finest pig there.
How happy Jack was!
And father was happy, too.

A SONG

(To be memorized)

Merry have we met,
And merry have we been;
Merry let us part,
And merry meet again.

With a merry sing-song,
Happy, gay, and free,
With a merry ding-dong
Again we'll happy be.
